7. Captain Patterson, of Gen. McClure's office, called on the suggestion of General Donovan in an effort to find a list of officers assigned to OSS. I indicated there might be competition in recruiting any such officers but would try to inform him on who would be in a position to give him the required information.

Captain Patterson also said that Col. Stanley of their office was trying to find out what information was available on MO operations and personnel. I said I would be glad to talk to Col. Stanley and try to refer him to the proper CIA office.
